EXPERTISE OVER TRENDS

A NOTE BEFORE YOU BEGIN

Beauty should feel empowering, not exhausting.

If you have ever felt pulled between trending products, quick fixes, and what actually works for your face, you are not alone.

For the last two decades, I have worked hands-on with women stepping into their biggest moments — brides on their wedding day, entrepreneurs launching their brands, and women navigating a new chapter of life. The same questions come up again and again, and they rarely have anything to do with the newest product.

The most transformative beauty routine is not the loudest one. It is the one that reflects your skin, your features, your lifestyle, and the way you want to feel when you walk into a room.

This guide answers the ten questions I hear most often. Read it once straight through, then come back to the questions that speak to where you are right now. My hope is that you finish it with more clarity, more confidence, and more ease.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

Each answer ends with a note showing where that topic is taught in depth inside The Elevated Method membership — so when you are ready to go further, you know exactly where to start.

O1

Where do I start if I want a routine that feels personal instead of generic?

Start with your real life, not the trend cycle. Look at your skin type, your daily schedule, your comfort level with makeup, and the moments when you want to feel most polished. A routine built for early mornings, back-to-back meetings, and school drop-off will look different from one created for travel or evening events.

When you begin with your lifestyle, your routine becomes support, not pressure.

O2

How do I know what my skin actually needs?

Pay attention to patterns. Does your skin feel tight after cleansing, shiny by midday, irritated by fragrance, or dull when you skip exfoliation? Those clues matter more than whatever is trending online.

Healthy skincare starts with observation. Cleanse gently, hydrate consistently, protect with SPF, and then add targeted steps only where they are truly needed.

Simplicity can still be elevated.

O3

How do I choose makeup that flatters my features instead of masking them?

Choose makeup that enhances, not overwhelms. Think about balance, proportion, and the features you want to highlight most. A softly defined brow, a complexion product that matches your skin in natural light, and a lip color that brings life to your face can do more than a heavily layered routine.

MARI · Finding a complexion match in natural light is exactly what MARI, our AI shade-matching tool, is built for. It reads your skin's undertones from a single photo and matches you to your ideal foundation and concealer shades.

Let your features lead. That is where timeless elegance lives.

O4

What if I do not have time for a long routine every day?

Then your routine should be designed for efficiency. You do not need ten steps to look polished — you need the right steps. A streamlined morning might include cleanser, moisturizer, SPF, a tinted complexion product, brow definition, mascara, and lip color. That is a complete routine when it is built with intention.

Elevated everyday beauty is about smart choices that still feel beautiful.

How do I stop chasing every trend and trust my own style?

Begin by asking whether a trend supports your face, your lifestyle, and your personal taste. If it requires constant adjustment, feels unnatural, or takes you away from what makes you feel confident, it may not be for you. Confidence grows when you stop looking outward for permission and start building from what already suits you.

Authentic self-expression is more powerful than imitation.

06

How long does it take to see real results from a new routine?

Some results appear quickly, while others take consistency. Makeup can give you an immediate shift in how you look and feel. Skincare usually asks for patience — texture, clarity, and balance improve over time when you stay consistent with the basics.

Measure progress by how your skin feels, how your makeup wears, and how confident you are becoming — not by overnight perfection.

What should I do if my routine keeps not working?

Do not assume you are the problem. Usually the routine is simply mismatched. Too many active ingredients, the wrong foundation shade, products that do not suit your skin type, or steps that do not fit your day can all create frustration. Simplify first, then rebuild one layer at a time.

MARI · If you suspect your shade is the problem, MARI can take the guesswork out of it — one photo, and you have a match built from your own skin.

When you troubleshoot with honesty, you make room for a routine that finally feels like yours.

08

How do I create a routine that works for both everyday life and special moments?

Build a strong everyday base, then add layers for transformation when you want them. Your daily routine should support healthy skin and a polished look with minimal effort. For special moments, you can deepen the complexion, add dimension to the eyes, or choose a bolder lip.

When the foundation is personalized, transformation becomes effortless rather than stressful.

How do I build confidence if I have spent years feeling behind on beauty knowledge?

Start by releasing the idea that you need to know everything at once. Beauty confidence is built through repetition, not perfection. Learn your skin, understand your features, and practice until your routine feels familiar. Knowledge becomes powerful when it is applied with grace.

You are not behind. You are simply at the beginning of a more intentional chapter.

How can professional guidance change the way I approach skincare and makeup?

Professional guidance helps you move from guessing to understanding. It shows you what works for your complexion, what flatters your features, and where you may be spending time or money on products that do not serve you. That kind of clarity creates confidence — and confidence changes everything.

When you feel informed, you stop following beauty from the outside and begin leading your own experience.

THIS IS THE HEART OF THE ELEVATED METHOD
