

The Elevated Beauty Method

Reference: Natalie Setareh • Makeup education & transformation • September 2026

Executive summary

For women who want practical beauty confidence and greater visibility, The Elevated Beauty Method is an ongoing beauty-transformation community that combines makeup mastery, personal presence, and age-positive education. Unlike one-off tutorials and courses, EBM supports the woman she is becoming—not just the look she is learning.

BOTTOM LINE

Borrow Natalie's specificity and proof—not her fragmented site structure. EBM can win by turning feature-specific makeup education into a guided, ongoing identity transformation.

Three strategic moves

1

Create a tangible first win

Launch a free "Elevated Everyday Face" path: skin type !' undertone !' feature mapping !' five-minute !' day-to-night. A concrete result converts better than a broad library promise.

2

Personalize the method

Use a short onboarding diagnostic to identify skin type, undertone, eye shape, life stage, and visibility goal. Turn the answers into a recommended path called "Your Method."

3

Build proof into the product

Replace generic social activity with named transformation stories, before/after learning outcomes, and role-specific testimonials from everyday women, founders, and women over 40.

Where EBM can own the category

Premium beauty education for women in transition: practical enough to use tomorrow, emotionally resonant enough to change how they show up.

Competitive landscape

Pricing and features reflect publicly visible pages accessed in September 2026.

ALTERNATIVE	STAGE	PUBLIC PRICE	PRIMARY STRENGTH	PRIMARY WEAKNESS
EBM	Working MVP	$0 / $29 mo / $49 mo + $1,500	Transformation + ongoing community	Proof, pathways and entitlements not yet mature
Natalie Setareh	Independent educator	$127 course; $9.99–$19.99 guides	Specific, practical, inclusive curriculum	Experience fragmented across site, shop and Thinkific
YouTube / Instagram	Mature platforms	Free / ad-supported	Infinite volume and convenience	Low trust, weak personalization, product bias
Sephora / Ulta classes	Retail education	Often free or low-cost	Hands-on help and product trial	Retail sales incentive; weak continuity
Online pro academies	Established schools	From ~$49/mo; higher total tuition	Structure, feedback and certification	Career-led; excessive for everyday learners

What the reference proves

- Specific outcomes create trust: skin type, undertone, face and eye shape, a five-day sequence, a workbook, video instruction, support, and one-year access.
- Natalie’s own testimonials emphasize confidence, faster routines, smarter product shopping, and advice suited to the individual—not trend imitation.
- No independent review corpus was found for Natalie’s course; the proof cited here is seller-published and should be treated as directional.

Feature matrix

🟢 strong / live 🟡 partial / planned 🟠 absent or not evident • Weight = buyer importance

CAPABILITY	WT.	EBM	NATALIE	SOCIAL	RETAIL	PRO
Skin type & undertone	5	🟡	🟢	🟡	🟡	🟢
Face / eye feature mapping	5	🟡	🟢	🟡	🟡	🟢
Clear beginner pathway	5	🟡	🟢	🟠	🟡	🟢
Identity & confidence work	5	🟢	🟡	🟠	🟠	🟡
Age-positive beauty	4	🟢	🟡	🟡	🟡	🟡
Visibility / camera presence	4	🟢	🟡	🟡	🟠	🟡
Ongoing community	4	🟢	🟡	🟡	🟠	🟢
Progress tracking	4	🟢	🟢	🟡	🟠	🟢
Digital guides / workbook	4	🟡	🟢	🟠	🟠	🟡
Visible customer proof	5	🟠	🟢	🟡	🟡	🟢
Tiered recurring membership	3	🟡	🟠	🟠	🟠	🟡
Personalized support	4	🟡	🟢	🟠	🟢	🟢

Priority gap: EBM already has the broadest transformation proposition, but Natalie currently communicates the learning journey and individual relevance more convincingly.

The white-space position

The attractive corner combines individual relevance with an ongoing transformation ecosystem.

Interpretation

- Natalie is strong on personalization to the learner, but the experience is primarily a course-and-guide funnel rather than a recurring identity community.
- Pro academies provide structure and feedback, but their career and certification emphasis overshoots the everyday woman's job-to-be-done.
- EBM can occupy the premium upper-right by making its promised transformation operational: diagnostic onboarding, guided pathways, live support, and member milestones.

Own this phrase: “The method for how you look, feel, and show up.”

White space & Kano analysis

What the category expects, what improves preference, and what can make EBM memorable.

Three under-served opportunities

1

Life-stage pathways

Organize the same core beauty skills around real moments: Everyday Elevation, On-Camera Visibility, Reinvention After 40, and Artist-to-Expert.

2

Prestige without intimidation

Combine the polish of a luxury beauty brand with beginner-safe language, practical shopping guidance, and visible “start here” direction.

3

Practice-to-presence loop

Move beyond watching videos: complete a look, reflect on confidence, share a result, receive feedback, and apply it in a real visibility moment.

Kano map

BASICS

Clear curriculum • mobile-ready video • progress • accessible captions • secure account • explicit tier access

PERFORMANCE

More personalization • faster feedback • stronger workbooks • longer access • better search • more live sessions

DELIGHTERS

Beauty identity profile • visibility rehearsals • age-positive pathways • reinvention circles • camera-look reviews

90-day action plan

Sequence matters: prove a first transformation before expanding the catalog.

DAYS 1–30

01

Build the “Start Here” conversion path

Add a five-question beauty diagnostic and a free five-part Elevated Everyday Face pathway. Show the exact lesson sequence before sign-up. End with one concrete deliverable: a repeatable 10-minute look.

Primary metric: diagnostic completion + free membership conversion

DAYS 31–60

02

Make membership differences tangible

Label every course and resource by tier. Add locked previews, upgrade prompts, and a comparison view that explains outcomes—not just content quantity. Connect the $29 tier to workshops and feedback; reserve transformation intensives for premium.

Primary metric: free + $29 trial or subscription intent

DAYS 61–90

03

Install the transformation proof loop

Collect structured member stories at enrollment and after key milestones. Ask what changed in routine, product confidence, camera comfort, and willingness to be seen. Feature proof beside the relevant pathway.

Primary metric: pathway completion + usable transformation stories

Trap-setting questions

- Are you looking for another tutorial—or a method tailored to your features, season of life, and visibility goals?
- What happens after you finish the course: do you keep growing, receive feedback, and have a community to return to?
- Are you only learning makeup, or are you preparing to show up differently in your business, relationships, and next chapter?

Sources & confidence notes

Public pages accessed September 2026. Pricing and product details may change.

1

Natalie Setareh — 7 Ways to Learn Makeup at Home

<https://nataliesetareh.com/learn-makeup-at-home/>

2

Natalie Setareh — Learn Makeup in 5 Days

<https://nataliesetareh.com/learnmakeup>

3

Natalie Setareh — Makeup Learning Lab / Shop

<https://nataliesetareh.com/shop>

4

Natalie Setareh — Makeup for Beginners guide

<https://nataliesetareh.com/makeup-for-beginners>

5

Thinkific — Learn Makeup in 5 Days curriculum

<https://makeupforbeginners.thinkific.com/courses/learn>

6

Create Your Signature Look — Makeup coaching

<https://createyoursignaturelook.com/makeup>

7

QC Makeup Academy — Online makeup courses

<https://www.qcmakeupacademy.com/online-makeup-courses>

8

Online Makeup Academy — Programs and tuition

<https://www.onlinemakeupacademy.com/programs-and-tuition>

9

EBM working product — current app and supplied membership brief

Current Replit project and user-provided source document

CONFIDENCE NOTE

Natalie's strengths and testimonials are based primarily on her own public pages; no meaningful independent review corpus was found. The positioning map and feature ratings are analyst judgments, clearly separated from sourced facts.